

Supplemental ESL II

Reading Literature and Informational Text

Narrative Writing

Grades K/1: Unit 1 Level 2 (2.5-3.4)

Course Description (Workshop Model)

Supplemental English as a Second Language consists of developing reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills. During Supplemental ESL instruction, students will learn to use reading and writing strategies to help them become effective English language readers and writers. ESL teachers will use the appropriate leveled language objectives to build lessons for ELLs, which reflects what is covered in the general education program. In this way, all teachers work on the same Student Learning Objectives connected to the Common Core standards. The design of language objectives are based on the alignment of the World-Class Instructional Design Assessment (WIDA) Consortium’s English Language Development (ELD) standards with the Common Core State Standards (CCSS). WIDA’s ELD standards advance academic language development across content areas, ultimately leading to academic achievement for English learners. As English learners are progressing through the six developmental linguistic stages, this course will assist all teachers working with English learners to appropriately identify the language needed to meet the requirements of the content standard. At the same time, the language objectives recognize the cognitive demand required to complete educational tasks. The teachers will instruct students using the workshop model philosophy with the use of the “I DO, WE DO, YOU DO” method of instruction. Other skills such as grammar, vocabulary, listening, and speaking are infused in the exploration of effective reading and writing. The NJ Student Learning Standards are designed to provide a clear understanding of what students are expected to learn, providing teachers and parents the knowledge of what they need to do to help them. The standards are designed to be robust and relevant to the real world, reflecting the information and skills that our young learners need for success in college and careers. It is our goal to establish a community of learners to become productive citizens in society striving towards pursuing their life-long goals. Through an enriching and rigorous education and with on-going support, our students will be fully prepared for the future to compete successfully in the global economy.

Career Ready Practices

Standards

CRP1, CRP2, CRP3, CRP4, CRP5, CRP6, CRP7, CRP8, CRP9, CRP10, CRP11, CRP12

- CRP1. Act as a responsible and contributing citizen and employee

Career-ready individuals understand the obligations and responsibilities of being a member of a community, and they demonstrate this understanding every day through their interactions with others. They are conscientious of the impacts of their decisions on others and the environment around them. They think about the near-term and long-term consequences of their actions and seek to act in ways that contribute to the betterment of their teams, families, community and workplace. They are reliable and consistent in going beyond the minimum expectation and in participating in activities that serve the greater good.

- CRP2. Apply appropriate academic and technical skills.

Career-ready individuals readily access and use the knowledge and skills acquired through experience and education to be more productive. They make connections between abstract concepts with real-world applications, and they make correct insights about when it is appropriate to apply the use of an academic skill in a workplace situation

- CRP3. Attend to personal health and financial well-being.

Career-ready individuals understand the relationship between personal health, workplace performance and personal well-being; they act on that understanding to regularly practice healthy diet, exercise and mental health activities. Career-ready individuals also take regular action to contribute to their personal financial wellbeing, understanding that personal financial security provides the peace of mind required to contribute more fully to their own career success.

- CRP4. Communicate clearly and effectively and with reason.

Career-ready individuals communicate thoughts, ideas, and action plans with clarity, whether using written, verbal, and/or visual methods. They communicate in the workplace with clarity and purpose to make maximum use of their own and others' time. They are excellent writers; they master conventions, word choice, and organization, and use effective tone and presentation skills to articulate ideas. They are skilled at interacting with others; they are active listeners and speak clearly and with purpose. Career-ready individuals think about the audience for their communication and prepare accordingly to ensure the desired outcome.

- CRP5. Consider the environmental, social and economic impacts of decisions.

Career-ready individuals understand the interrelated nature of their actions and regularly make decisions that positively impact and/or mitigate negative impact on other people, organization, and the environment. They are aware of and utilize new technologies, understandings, procedures, materials, and regulations affecting the nature of their work as it relates to the impact on the social condition, the environment and the profitability of the organization.

- CRP6. Demonstrate creativity and innovation.

Career-ready individuals regularly think of ideas that solve problems in new and different ways, and they contribute those ideas in a useful and productive manner to improve their organization. They can consider unconventional ideas and suggestions as solutions to issues, tasks or problems, and they discern which ideas and suggestions will add greatest value. They seek new methods, practices, and ideas from a variety of sources and seek to apply those ideas to their own workplace. They take action on their ideas and understand how to bring innovation to an organization.

- CRP7. Employ valid and reliable research strategies.

Career-ready individuals are discerning in accepting and using new information to make decisions, change practices or inform strategies. They use reliable research process to search for new information. They evaluate the validity of sources when considering the use and adoption of external information or practices in their workplace situation.

- CRP8. Utilize critical thinking to make sense of problems and persevere in solving them.

Career-ready individuals readily recognize problems in the workplace, understand the nature of the problem, and devise effective plans to solve the problem. They are aware of problems when they occur and take action quickly to address the problem; they thoughtfully investigate the root cause of the problem prior to introducing solutions. They carefully consider the options to solve the problem. Once a solution is agreed upon, they follow through to ensure the problem is solved, whether through their own actions or the actions of others.

- CRP9. Model integrity, ethical leadership and effective management.

Career-ready individuals consistently act in ways that align personal and community-held ideals and principles while employing strategies to positively influence others in the workplace. They have a clear understanding of integrity and act on this understanding in every decision. They use a variety of means to positively impact the directions and actions of a team or organization, and they apply insights into human behavior to change others' action, attitudes and/or beliefs. They recognize the near-term and long-term effects that management's actions and attitudes can have on productivity, morals and organizational culture.

- CRP10. Plan education and career paths aligned to personal goals.

Career-ready individuals take personal ownership of their own education and career goals, and they regularly act on a plan to attain these goals. They understand their own career interests, preferences, goals, and requirements. They have perspective regarding the pathways available to them and the time, effort, experience and other requirements to pursue each, including a path of entrepreneurship. They recognize the value of each step in the education and experiential process, and they recognize that nearly all career paths require ongoing education and experience. They seek counselors, mentors, and other experts to assist in the planning and execution of career and personal goals.

- CRP11. Use technology to enhance productivity.

Career-ready individuals find and maximize the productive value of existing and new technology to accomplish workplace tasks and solve workplace problems. They are flexible and adaptive in acquiring new technology. They are proficient with ubiquitous technology applications. They understand the inherent risks-personal and organizational-of technology applications, and they take actions to prevent or mitigate these risks.

- CRP12. Work productively in teams while using cultural global competence.

Career-ready individuals positively contribute to every team, whether formal or informal. They apply an awareness of cultural difference to avoid barriers to productive and positive interaction. They find ways to increase the engagement and contribution of all team members. They plan and facilitate effective team meetings.

Interdisciplinary Connections

Model interdisciplinary thinking to expose students to other disciplines

Social Studies Connection: Chester's Way, Kevin Henkes

Name Bags: To help students introduce themselves to their classmates, the teacher displays a decorated brown lunch bag holding 3 items that tell about the teacher (e.g., puzzle piece, whisk, dog bone - likes to do puzzles, cook and has a pet dog). Then have each student decorate a brown lunch bag. Tell the students they are to take the bags home and put in 3 items that tell about themselves. Assign groups of students a date to return the filled bag which they will share with their classmates.

Math Connection: Yo! Yes?, Chris Raschka

Letter Graphing: To help students recognize that everyone's name is unique and to identify the number of letters in their names, read Chrysanthemum by Kevin Henkes and talk about how special names are. Create a class graph depicting the number of letters in each student's name. Use the graph to compare and contrast names to show that names are unique and special just like each student. Follow-up activity: have students make/decorate name puzzles.

Social Studies Connection: Margaret and Margarita/Margarita y Margaret, Lynn Reiser

Saying Hello in Different Languages: To teach students that saying hello is universal, visit the Say Hello to the World website (<http://www.ipl.org/div/hello>) to identify how to say hello in other languages. Each week, have your students select a country, learn how to say hello in that language and greet their classmates each day. Follow-up activity: post a "Say Hello" chart and each week add hello in the language the students are speaking when they greet each other.

Technology Connection:

Basic Computer Skills: Visit the Growing with Technology website (www.growing.course.com/index.html) so your students can learn grade level (K-5) technology skills in "Katie's Room".

Enrichment

Accommodate Based on Students Individual Needs: Strategies

The goal of Enrichment is to provide learners the opportunity to participate in extension activities that are differentiated and augment the district's curriculum. Teachers are to accommodate based on student individual needs.

- Show a high degree of intellectual, creative and/or artistic ability and demonstrate this ability in multiple ways.
- Pose questions and exhibit sincere curiosity about principles and how things work.
- The ability to grasp concepts and make real world and cross-curricular connections.
- Generate theories and hypotheses and pursue methods of inquiry.
- Produce products that express insight, creativity, and excellence.
- Possess exceptional leadership skills.
- Evaluate vocabulary
- Elevate Text Complexity
- Inquiry based assignments and projects
- Independent student options
- Tiered/Multi-level activities
- Purposeful Learning Center
- Open-ended activities and projects
- Form and build on learning communities
- Providing pupils with experiences outside the 'regular' curriculum
- Altering the pace the student uses to cover regular curriculum in order to explore topics of interest in greater depth/breadth within their own grade level.
- A higher quality of work than the norm for the given age group.
- The promotion of a higher level of thinking and making connections.
- The inclusion of additional subject areas and/or activities (cross-curricular).
- Using supplementary materials in addition to the normal range of resources.

Assessments

Required District/State Assessments

District Resources

Guided Reading

Guided reading is an instructional approach that involves a teacher working with a small group of students who demonstrate similar reading behaviors and can all read similar levels of texts.

Running Records

A running record is a tool used to assess students' reading behaviors and comprehension. A benchmark book and a running record form, with text from the book, are used for assessment. Analyzing students' performance will help teachers identify students' reading levels, check their fluency, find weaknesses in comprehension and plan effective guided reading instruction.

Running records will be administered to students as part of the ELA unit assessments. Benchmark books, identified in the guided reading program, are to be utilized for assessment purposes only.

District Resources

Guided Reading

A student on grade level should display the following reading behaviors by the end of the school year.

Reading Behaviors: Level D

- Remembers language patterns and repeating events over longer stretches of text
- Self-corrects, using visual information
- Controls directionality and word-by-word matching with eyes, using finger only at points of difficulty
- Searches for understanding while reading
- Remembers details from the text and pictures
- Pays close attention to words and their structural features (for example, endings)
- Reads fluently, with phrasing
- Rereads to confirm or figure out new words
- Solves new words using knowledge of sound/letter relationships and word parts

Notes to Teacher:

- Benchmark books, identified in the guided reading program, are to be utilized for assessment purposes only.
- Running records will be administered to students as part of the ESL Unit assessments.

*School based resources can be used in addition to the above required resources, but cannot replace the resources in the unit

Writer's Workshop

Talking, Drawing, Writing: Lessons for Our Youngest Writers

Martha Horn & Mary Ellen Giacobbe

In kindergarten, talking and drawing can provide children with a natural pathway to writing.

Martha Horn and Mary Ellen Giacobbe invite readers to join them in classrooms where they listen, watch, and talk with children, then use what they learn to create lessons designed to meet children where they are and lead them into the world of writing. The lessons in the book serve as a helpful guide and provide us with examples of language the authors use with children that reveal a genuine respect for and trust in children as learners.

The authors advocate for formal storytelling sessions in which children tell about what they know and for focused sketching sessions so that budding writers learn how to observe more carefully.

For Unit 1, writer's workshop, we will be implementing lessons from the Talking, Drawing, Writing: Lessons for Our Youngest Writers text focusing on oral storytelling and drawing.

Writer's Workshop

Teaching kindergarten students the craft of writing should begin with what they know. By looking to our students to teach us what they know and how they know it, teachers can make learning meaningful.

Oral Storytelling

Talk plays a powerful role in the beginnings of writing. When students have opportunities to talk their stories through first, they have a better sense of what they want to put on paper. The ability to write clear, detailed stories has everything to do with having the language with which to say it. At the start of the school year, writing for our youngest writers begins with a formal storytelling time - a chance for students to hear what they have to say.

Oral Storytelling (... about things that you know)

- Establish a classroom environment where every member of the class is known and feels safe telling stories
- Teacher models... we all have stories to tell about every day, ordinary things
- Students are invited to talk about themselves

Writer's Workshop

Drawing

Young students enter the world of writing through drawing. Drawing for early writers is a way of making meaning. In conjunction with oral storytelling, drawing would be the beginning stage of the writing workshop: mini-lessons focused on drawing, sketching time included in writing time, setting up a drawing center to foster independent drawing and peer conversations that naturally would arise around drawing in all aspects of the curriculum.

Drawing

- Create student drawing books
- Introduce the drawing & writing book (set a purpose)
- Teacher models
- Introduce materials (care, use and storage)

It helps children absorb and understand early writing strategies and reinforces their sense of how words work. It gives them the chance to realize the power of producing meaningful text. As the students and teacher write together, children quickly learn such early print concepts as directional movement and one-to-one matching. They gain a strong sense of letter-sound correspondence, and they also learn to form letters accurately, write a variety of quick and easy words, and notice specific features within letters and words. They come to understand the use and meaning of punctuation marks. They also learn to proofread their work to make sure the text makes sense, sounds right, and looks right. Adapted from Rosalie Franzese “Reading and Writing in Kindergarten: A Practical Guide”

Task Level	Linguistic Complexity	Vocabulary Usage	Language Control
1 Entering	Single words, set phrases or chunks of simple language; varying amounts of text may be copied or adapted; adapted text contains original language.	Usage of highest frequency vocabulary from school setting and content areas.	Generally comprehensible when text is copied or adapted from model or source text; comprehensibility may be significantly impeded in original text.
2 Emerging	Phrases and short sentences; varying amount of text may be copied or adapted; some attempt at organization may be evidenced.	Usage of general language related to the content area; lack of vocabulary may be evident.	Generally comprehensible when text is adapted from model or source text, or when original text is limited to simple text; comprehensibility may be often impeded by errors.
3 Developing	Simple and expanded sentences that show emerging complexity used to provide detail.	Usage of general and some specific language related to the content area; lack of needed vocabulary may be evident.	Generally comprehensible when writing in sentences; comprehensibility may from time to time be impeded by errors when attempting to produce more complex text.
4 Expanding	A variety of sentence lengths of varying linguistic complexity; emerging cohesion used to provide detail and clarity.	Usage of specific and some technical language related to the content area; lack of needed vocabulary may be occasionally evident.	Generally comprehensible at all times, errors don't impede the overall meaning; such errors may reflect first language interference.
5 Bridging	A variety of sentence lengths of varying linguistic complexity in a single organized paragraph or in extended text; cohesion and organization	Usage of technical language related to the content area; evident facility with needed vocabulary.	Approaching comparability to that of English proficient peers; errors don't impede comprehensibility.
6 Reaching*	A variety of sentence lengths of varying linguistic complexity in a single tightly organized paragraph or in well-organized extended text; tight cohesion and organization	Consistent use of just the right word in just the right place; precise Vocabulary Usage in general, specific or technical language.	Has reached comparability to that of English proficient peers functioning at the "proficient" level in state-wide assessments.

IMAGINE THAT! – An interactive museum featuring a real fire truck, a real airplane, a real motorcycle and other vehicles that children can play on. They have a sensory exploration area, a shadow room, play grocery store, arts & crafts area, music room, pirate ship and a multicultural area that features items from all around the world. Children are not required to go through the museum in any specific order, but rather may explore at their own pace. There are educational puppet shows with beautiful puppets, each centered around an age-appropriate theme such as kindness, nutrition, problem-solving or the seasons of the year.
