

Dear Families,

Your child was recently assessed in reading to determine his/her reading levels. The independent level is the level at which your son/daughter can read (easily with understanding) without help. Books at the independent level are those that come before the instructional level. Based on the assessment your child is at Guided Reading/Instructional Level L. The instructional reading level is the level that your son/daughter can read with support. While reading at this level, you should observe your child using the reading behaviors listed below.

- Reads silently much of the time.
- Reads fluently, slowing down to figure out new words and then resumes speed.
- Figures out new words using a variety of strategies.
- Uses meaning, structure, and visual cues to understand the story and figure out new words.
- Demonstrates an understanding of the text after silent reading.
- Sustains attention to details and interpretation of a longer text read over several days.

Within each reading level some books may be easier or harder. To help determine if the books your child is selecting to read are appropriate for this level, follow these steps:

1. Open to any page in the middle of the book.
2. Have your child read that page.
3. As they read raise a finger each time they get to a word that they don't know. If they read the page without any errors or just one error, the book is too easy (independent level). If they make 2-3 mistakes the book is just right (instructional level). If they make more than 3 errors, the book is too difficult to read independently (frustration level) and should be read aloud to your child.

You can also visit Scholasticbookwizard.com and enter the book title and you will be provided with the guided reading/instructional level. Yes, there is an app for this!

Parent Tip: Readers think about (infer) what lesson the author may be trying to teach them.

The Paterson Public Library (www.patersonpl.org/) offers many titles at each independent reading level. Some books at your child's current independent reading level, that he/she might enjoy, are listed below. Visit your neighborhood branch today to check out some of these great books!

- Alligator Baby by Robert Munsch
- Anansi the Spider: A Tale from the Ashanti by Gerald McDermott
- Miss Nelson Has a Field Day by Harry Allard
- Ricky Ricotta's Mighty Robot vs. the Mecha-Monkeys from Mars by Dav Pilkey
- Animal Tracks by Arthur Dorros
- The Big "M" by Cynthia Rothman
- Spiders by Gail Gibbons
- This is My House by Arthur Dorros

Happy Reading!
